A Merciless Judge

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Norway resident has withstood the strictest of all tests.

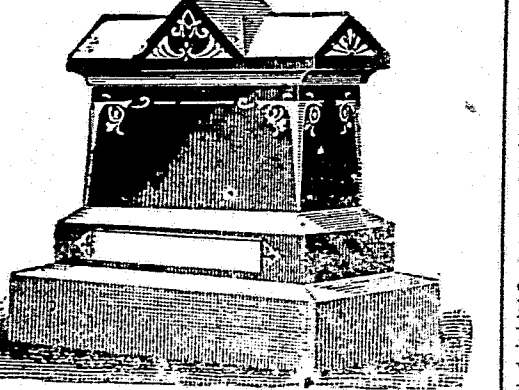

M. M. Kilgore, Danforth St., Norway, says: "I had backache and rheumatic pains for more than a year, caused by disordered kidneys. My kidneys were acting irregularly all the time and I was so lame and sore across the small of my back that I could hardly stand. At night I rested but little and was feeling miserable much of the time. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store, and a few boxes cured me of the trouble." (Statement given July 24, 1908).

A Lasting Cure.

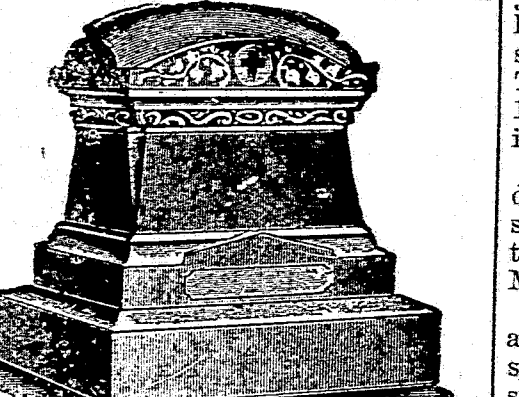

On June 7, 1916, Mr. Kilgore said: "I gladly give you my permission to continue using my recommendation as I am still a firm believer in Doan's Kidney Pills. The cure they gave me has proven permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kilgore has twice recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 35-36

BETHEL
CHILDREN'S COLUMN.
Bethel, Me., February, 1917.
Dear Editor: I will write some lines that mamma composed on her dear "Sister Rose in Heaven."

Though your dear face I do not see,
A loving message comes to me,
To cheer me on to where you are
And the way is not so very far—
You seem to send this message clear
To bless, to comfort and to cheer,
And lead me on to heaven above,
Where all is peace and joy and love.
Now I will tell the kind of animals where I get my milk. It is ten minutes walk from where I live. There are 13 heads of cattle, 4 heifers, 1 colt, 5 horses,
2 pigs. I will tell the breed of cows,
6 Short Horn, 4 Holsteins, 3 Ayrshires.
The heifers are all Short Horns. The colt's color is rusty chestnut. The pigs are black. The horses colors are red, sorrel, chestnut, gray.

I will tell the cattle's names, Daisy,
Rosie, Bessie, Mary, Katherine, Panny,
Molly, Verna, Helen, Annie, Cleo, Lucy,
Spotty. Now I will tell the heifers' names,
Mary, Ruth, Posy and Ada. The pigs' names are Ted and Lulu, Queenie and Princess.
The colt's name is Major. They all are very gentle, kind, loving and handsome. Horses need to be treated kind just as much as people do. Horses work for us, and are to drive, too. Some horses are very faithful.
They know some things better than some people do.
They know who is kind to them.

I have a book that tells about dumb animals,
the name of it is "Beautiful Joe," by Marshall Saunders.
"Beautiful Joe" is the name of a dog and he tells about his life with some one to help him. It is a very fine book to read.
Have any of you read "Black Beauty"? That also is a fine book.

I hope I will see my letter printed. Wish more girls and boys would write and tell us what nice times they have sliding, skating and snow shoeing. When our kind Editor has asked us. Now won't you? So good bye.

From Blanche E. Kimball, Bethel, Me.

KEEP ON THE SAFE SIDE
Liston P. Evans of the Piscataquis Observer has this to say which so aptly applies to farmers in the vicinity, we copy it:

"The price that potatoes have been bringing during the fall and winter will encourage many farmers to increase their acreage next spring and will also incite people who are not farmers to go into the business of raising them.

But if the present and prospective growers will go back over the last five or ten years they will find, as they must already know, that the present price is very abnormal, that there has been so many lean years both in crop and price that the business has given only fair returns on the average.

It has been but a short time since farmers gave mortgages to pay their fertilizer bills and that condition is much more likely to occur again than is a two-dollars-a-bushel market.

We are not a farmer, but our observation has been that the man who plants year in and year out such an acreage of potatoes as he can care for in good shape and fertilize without risk of embarrassment in case of a short crop or low prices, succeeds in getting more money and more happiness than does the man who puts in a large acreage the year following a big crop or high prices and a small acreage the year following a small crop or low prices.

If a farmer has sufficient capital to stand the strain of a short crop or low prices he can "plunge" in the business, but if the condition would forecast a mortgage it is his duty to himself and his family to avoid it and to keep on the safe side."

OSSIPEE TRAIL.
The Boston Herald refers to the Ossipee trail, mentioned in connection with Maine's good road's programme, as a new route between Portland and the White Mountains. This is true, perhaps, on the principle that all roads lead to Rome, but the tourist who went from Portland to the White Mountains via the Ossipee trail would have a roundabout journey, for at a part of its course does it touch even the southern foothills of the Presidential range.

The old Ossipee trail was the line of Indian travel from Ossipee lake in New Hampshire down the valley of the Great Ossipee to the junction of that river with the Saco. At the point the trail struck the old Pequawisset trail, which followed a northerly course to Fryeburg and beyond and a southerly course to the big Indian settlement within a few miles of the mouth of the Saco.

PARTRIDGE'S ENEMY
Foxes are plenty, partridges are scarce. Sportsmen believe one need look no farther in search for an explanation of the scarcity of the ruffed grouse. They say that years ago was found the hole of one mother fox and around it the wings of 20 partridges that had probably been caught in the night while the birds were sitting on their eggs. The fox had undoubtedly carried them to its young. Each one of these mother partridges, if they could have been left to hatch their eggs would have represented from 12 to 15 partridges for the hunters in the Fall. If one fox can do as much damage as this to the ranks of Maine partridges what must be going on all over the State, particularly in a year when foxes are unusually numerous and bold?

Partridges in the Winter frequently dive down under the light snows for warmth. The prowling fox is quick to scent them and he enjoys a midnight meal realizing that the laws of Maine protect him from the hunter while he destroys Maine's greatest game bird.

He Drew a Picture.
This is the story of a young man who has an aunt who paints pictures as a recreation, and this young gentleman thought he would like to imitate her. So he drew a picture and presented it to his aunt. He announced that the subject of the picture was "An Indian Attacking a White Settlement." The picture showed only a single big tree.

"Where is the Indian?" asked the aunt. "Indignantly the boy replied: "Well, you don't expect an Indian to be out in sight, do you, when he is attacking a settlement? Of course, the Indian is behind the tree." Which was certainly logical reasoning.

A Willard Memorial meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. last Sunday evening was held in the Baptist Church. An unusual thing happened, as all three of the residents present, not one was present, all being detained at home on account of sickness at home. Some of the other numbers on the program had to be omitted on account of sickness. Mrs. J. W. Cummings read a poem in memory of Francis B. Willard, Mrs. H. Patch, recited the poem "Little Blossom," which was done in a very effective manner. The leader gave a brief account of "Her Widening Way" and explained the use of the "Memorial fund." A good chorus choir led the song service and sang "Dear Leader We're Coming" and a trio "Somebody's Boy" with a bass solo lead was sung by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brock and Mrs. White. Murial Day, general secretary of the M. E. Home Mission Society, spoke in the interval of the work at the M. B. Church, Monday evening. Rev. G. H. Newton spoke in the forenoon and was very much enjoyed. The song service in the morning was led by Ethel J. Scribner of East Otisfield, she also sang a solo "Alone" in the afternoon. There was a very good attendance in the afternoon to listen to Gen. Sec., Rev. James A. White, who filled in two hours of very interesting talk with some singing put in between. Everybody was delighted with the speaker. He was a young man full of enthusiasm, bright sayings and practical plans for young people for helpfulness in Christian work. All those who did not hear him, missed a whole lot out of their lives. Rev. Will S. Coleman State president from Portland, was unable to be here as was expected. The Baptist quartette led the singing in the afternoon.

Mrs. Allie Emery has been sick, also Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Coburn, Mrs. Grundy, Mrs. Bell and others too numerous to mention, this is the bad cold and grippiness season.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. FOUR-FOLD BENEFIT

From Two Grand Medicines in Spring Hood's Sarsaparilla Pepton Pills.

You know that physicians often give two prescriptions, perhaps more, for medicines to be taken together, or alternately or at different times, because desired results cannot be secured by one medicine alone. The most successful combination spring medicine treatment that we know of—because perfectly "compatible" and productive of the best results—is in Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepton Pills. The former thoroughly searches out and expels impurities from the blood, creates an appetite and promotes digestion and natural action of the kidneys and liver, while Pepton Pills give the powerful tonic—they literally "put iron into your blood"—that just balances the requirement of perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla should be taken before meals and Pepton Pills after meals—patients taking them so report the benefit is four-fold—prompt, positive and permanent.

Corns Loosen Off With Magic "Gets-It"

2 Drops Do the Work, Painlessly.

"I tell you, before I heard of 'Gets-It' I used to try one thing after another for corns. I still had them. I used bandages and they made my toe so big it was murder to put on my shoe. I used salves and other things that ate off more of the toe than they did the corn. I'd cut and dig with knives and scissors, but now no more fooling for me. Two drops of 'Gets-It' did all the work. It makes the corn shrivel and get loose that you can just pick it right off with your fingers!"

Joseph Andrews' Letter

Interesting Incidents Concerning His Visit; Many Changes in the Fryeburg Villages; Reminiscences of 50 Years Ago, etc.

On Sept. 11th through the kindness of Henry Andrews, I enjoyed a pleasant buggy ride out Chatham way to the home of George Hill, son of David Hill. We passed on the way the fine summer home of Mead Hill, brother of Dana Hill, and son of Jonah Hill. The latter one of the pioneer settlers of Chatham. I understand that Mrs. Hill keeps a summer school of cooking and has a good patronage from summer visitors who come here from the city for their summer vacation. Mr. Hill evidently enjoys his summer vacations spent amongst the hill and woodland and friends and kindred of his native town. My call at George Hill's was to meet Rev. Nathan Piper who is boarding there and with whom I had a pleasant chat. He is a brother of George S. Piper an old friend of mine, who was born in Chatham, and who for the last 30 years until his death a few years ago, lived at Hurley, S. D., and whose son, George, until a year ago, was on my South Dakota farm. He is now near the 90th mile stone and well and hearty.

We returned to West Fryeburg by the way of Dana Hill's and the old Isaac Andrews farm. Most of the farms along the way are vacant, growing up to pines or owned by summer visitors. In the Hill neighborhood are several small lakes and around these lakes are many summer cottages, some of them almost hidden in the thick woods. When I was a boy, or other members of our family, made at least four trips each year to the carding and fulling mill kept by Jonah Hill. Our first trip was to take our home grown wool to have carded into rolls. Our second trip to bring the rolls home. Then in the fall after my mother and sister had spun the rolls into yarn and woven the yarn into cloth, we made our third trip to the mill to have the cloth fulled and colored and in due time we made our fourth trip to bring the cloth home to be manufactured into homemade garments for home consumption, which also included yarn for footings and stockings, and home raised and spun and woven linen for toweling. All of this was raised upon the farm except the cotton yarn for warp. I will also note in this connection that when we killed a beef of any kind we took the hide to the Isaiah Warlick tannery at Fryeburg village, or to the small Wiley tannery out West Fryeburg way, where we left it several months to be tanned. For tanning we had our choice to either pay by the pound in cash or give one-half the hide for tanning. This leather we took to the home shoe-maker to be made into shoes or boots for the members of the family. Going back to West Fryeburg I will make another start. This time out Green Hill way. In passing the John Heath home I noticed that the carpenter and painter had been to work and the place looked very neat and tidy, and very much improved but I missed the familiar form of grandpa Orin Heath from the bench under the big maple tree for he had crossed the still deep river of death, to the evergreen shores of Eternity where, free from bodily aches and pains, and failing eyesight, he will rest forevermore. At the Edwin Heath home I called for a little while. Mr. Heath was not at home. He was down on the intervals helping some of his neighbors harvest their corn and working hard from morning 'till night and camping at home nights. The wonder of it is that a year or two ago he was very near the grave. As his wife explained to me he had stomach trouble and was slowly starving to death. He went to Boston and consulted a physician who told him that the inlet of his stomach was growing up, in fact, was almost closed and that he could live but a few days as he was, but that an operation of the inlet of the stomach was left as it was, but the pipe or gullet was cut off close to the stomach. A new hole was cut into the stomach, through which the surgeon drew the outlet and attached it to the inlet pipe or gullet and lo! behold a miracle of surgery was performed for the patient recovered and today is a strong well man, laboring at hard labor every day. His food does not hurt him at all, and he can eat anything that is eatable. The old farm has a familiar look to me for in my boyhood days I often visited there. Uncle John Heath was a famous hunter and fisherman as well as a good farmer and manager. His wife, Aunt Mary Heath, was a dear old soul. Fifty years ago, in 1866, I worked for Jonathan Heath with scythe, hand finish haying down in the big meadow. His wife, Kate, was a dear good woman and I esteemed her friendship highly. She was never strong and died soon after I came west.

My next stop was at Archie Weeks', where I spent the night. Mr. Weeks married Louise Ballard, daughter of Dean Ballard, a year or two ago. Mr. Weeks has remodelled and enlarged his house and has a fine stand of buildings situated almost at the foot of old Mt. Kearsarge with two mountain streams close by and deer, bear and small game plenty in the surrounding forest. It is an ideal sportsman's paradise, but Mr. Weeks is too busy with his farm to devote much time to hunting and fishing. They have a sweet lovable baby a few months old and are living a happy life. A third of a mile further up the road at the home of Alvin Head, is the place where I was born January 11, 1844. Mr. Head remodelled and enlarged his house a year or two ago and in doing so tore down the old Andrews part. I took a good picture of the fine new house, but failed to get in it the summit of Mt. Kearsarge which is in plain view, and not more than four miles away. A few years before I was born my father bought a large tract of heavily timbered land in the Chatham hills of which his home-stead farm long owned by John Weeks, and now by Mr. Head, was a part. He must have lived there four or five years, and I think, spent his winters in logging his summers in tracing out the lines and locating the various lots of land, when he bought this land, which in time, became very valuable. I think he must have run heavily in debt, I have heard my mother tell that each spring he made a trip down East, I suppose to settle for his winter's logging and make payments on his land. When he died in the fall of 1848 he was owing but one thousand dollars, and the administrators of Abraham Andrews, Edmond Shirley and Geo. Ballard after paying off the debts and buying out the other heirs, divided the land amongst themselves by casting lots. As my half brother Abraham told me many years later, Mr. Shirley was the lucky man and drew all the most valuable lots. My half sister, Caroline, was housekeeper for her father after her mother died, and I have heard her tell of her long walks to the village church. It must have been four or five miles each way. She said that in the summer time she would take her shoes and stockings in her hands and go barefoot until near the village, then put them on and attend church and on her way home repeat the same operation. On my return trip I stopped for a little while at the Green Hill Cemetery. It is enclosed by a fence that will last for all time to come. Split stone slabs set side by side, deep enough so the frost cannot heave them out, and extending three or four feet above the ground, with a substantial iron gate, makes a fence that neither rust, frost or storm can level or destroy. Within, upon the many Headstones I read the names of a few old time friends and relatives. Under John Heath and wife, Jonathan Heath and wife, Arthur Burbank and wife and Jesse Watson, who I well remember. He was a soldier in the civil war and the inscription on the slab read something like this, "Erected by his friends and neighbors as a tribute to his memory." The many graves decorated by the stars and stripes, indicated that many old soldiers were buried there, but by some oversight the grave of Uncle John Heath was missed and no flag waved above his grave. It is engraved upon his grave stone that he was a soldier of the war of 1812 and I have heard him tell of several interesting experiences with his battery while in the war.

Up Rag End street in East Conway I found the John Andrews and wife in their usual good health and enjoyed two over night visits with them. They are living all alone. Their son Arthur, who is a lawyer, was serving his country as a soldier away down South, the Rio Grand. At Richard Webster's I found that all at once it was a rainy day and the swamps. My friends ago I took an excellent Kodak picture of Mr. and Mrs. Webster and their seven children. This time I found them all well and rugged and with ten bright young children around them. The oldest, the youngest a babe about one week old. Further up the street I enjoyed a pleasant over night visit with Ray Ballard and wife. I found them well and prospering and with plenty of hard work on hand. He and Richard Webster having on hand a contract to land at the Stevens saw mill about five million feet of lumber of which I have written elsewhere. My next and last call on this street, was at the home of Mrs. Susan Kelley and her two stalwart sons, known as the Kelley Boys, where I enjoyed two over night visits. I found things very much as they were four years ago. They own a fine new auto now, five teams of heavy work horses, a choice herd of milk cows, lots of hens busy at work in the yard and supply the demand for high priced eggs to supply the summer boarder trade, and everything that goes to make a first class farm. The Kelley Brothers are first class farmers. The neighbors say that the boys are awful good to their mother and I should judge that she reciprocates their kindness and is very good to them.

Down in the West Fryeburg cemetery another grave has been added to the Kelley plot, that of Mary Kelley Webster, having eight buried there out of the ten members of the James and Edmond Kelley families that lived at home when I worked there in the summer of 1866. We will next pay a short visit to Fryeburg village. At the home of Mrs. Eckley Ballard I enjoyed several pleasant visits. Mr. Ballard, who was in feeble health when I visited him, four years ago, had passed away. Mrs. Ballard and her three daughters were all at home. Abbie is cashier of the Fryeburg bank and boards at home. Amie is deputy register of deeds and also boards at home. Blanch for her annual vacation. They are three unusual bright, talented young ladies and it is very nice that they and their mother can all make their home together. I also enjoyed several nice visits at the home of Charles Andrews and his wife and daughter Ethel. They have a very nice home. The house was built by Henry Andrews about four years ago, especially for his brother Dean, but on account of failing health, was never occupied by the latter. Ethel attends school at the academy. Mrs. Andrews is housekeeper and helps in the office while Charles is kept busy looking after his growing auto business. Andrew Evans, an old time friend I met several times on my recent visit, is one of Fryeburg's most respected citizens. I had a pleasant half hour's call on Payson Western at his attractive home in the village. He was for many years one of the leading business men in town. Since my return home I saw in the Advertiser a notice of his death.

I met William Gordon—better known as Bill—several times on the street and called on him once at his home. I have known him almost as long as I can remember. He was my auctioneer when I sold out in Lovell in the spring of 1866 and long after when the children of Grandville Martin broke up his housekeeping on the same old homestead, he was their auctioneer, so he told me. He and his brother Samuel Gordon, passed their 80th mile stone two or three years ago when, as Mrs. Tarbox wrote, "Just eighty years ago, as I have oft been told, you and I were both in the same family."—A fond and loving mother arrangements had made for you, but when she saw your brother, she said, "What can I do?" They and their older brother, Dr. Gordon, now nearing his 80th mile stone and their sister, the doctor's housekeeper, are indeed a remarkable family, both for long years and active lives. May they live with many years to bless the world with their good cheer and helpfulness.

I attended the Congregational church one Sunday with Mrs. Ballard and met one of my old Lovell friends and did not know it the time, Samson Harriman. He is a fair sample of descendant of one of Lovell Center's old time families. He and Andrew Evans are both deacons in the Congregational church. Another Sunday I attended the New Church with Mrs. Charlie Andrews and met the pastor, Rev. Stone and wife. The next day I called on Mr. and Mrs. Stone at their home and had a very pleasant half hour visit. Mrs. Stone (nee Farrington) was a daughter of Nelson Farrington. Until about 1864 or 5 when he sold his farm to E. W. Burbank, Farrington lived on his interval farm in West Fryeburg. His family, as I remember them, consisted of himself and three tall, stalwart, daughters. They, like most of the residents of West Fryeburg, were regular attendants at the Congregational church at Fryeburg village. Though not personally acquainted with the family, I knew them all by sight, and when I attended church in the village as I occasionally did, they were usually there and I can see just how they looked as they stood or sat in their pew, well forward in the church, the daughters dressed in deep mourning, in memory of their mother, I presume. A letter just received from a friend in Lovell says that Mrs. Stone is in a hospital in Portland suffering from a severe shock. I sincerely hope that she may soon recover her health. I always felt that I had a special interest in the village church, for my father owned a pew there which I inherited, but which was afterwards exchanged with Isaac Andrews for his pew in the Lovell Center church.

I did not run across my old playmate, Tap Osgood; was told that he was staying with friends in Massachusetts. I visited Swan's falls twice and each time had a delightful visit with Horace Ballard and family. He is the son of Eckley Ballard whose first wife was Abbie Swan. This was my first meeting with him since in the spring of 1871 I visited his father in Portland when Horace was about four years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Ballard have raised up an interesting family of ten children. I think they all live at home except two of the older ones who were married. To me the old Swan place is a sacred shrine. The old house across the way where I spent so many happy hours in my childhood days rotted down long years ago. Only the big cellar and foundation built up an interesting remains. Down towards the river, where we used to have a magnificent view of the falls, a dense growth of pine and birch trees shut out the view, and one has to walk to the water's edge to view the falls. On the hillside near the river still lay the two sets of handmade mill stones or boulders, my father had ready to put in his grist mill at the falls when a great fresher came and swept the mill away. I failed to find the stone steps and old cellar where Joe Swan and I established our preacher's pulpit, and gauged the length of our A B C sermons by the amount of piecrust we could hide away at mealtime. A bit to each sermon. I took three pictures, one of the house one of the barn, and one of the gate, whose massive stone posts had stood perhaps for more than a hundred years. The old gate, almost 70 years ago, was made of poles and has been many times replaced with boards, but the old, old gate that I remember is stamped indelible upon my mind.

35 Years of Safety

Thirty-five years ago the first loan was made under the Straus Plan. Now, bonds sold by this house are found in the lock boxes of investors in every state of the United States, and many foreign countries—and no investor has ever lost a dollar of either interest or principal in any of these securities.

There are two reasons for this—the fundamentals of unquestioned safety, and the satisfactory service of a well-equipped organization.

The bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan are in denominations of $1,000, and yield 5 1/2 %.

Too Sick To Work

Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old."

— Mrs. O. M. RHINES, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga. — "I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited." — Mrs. W. E. LINDSEY, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CAT LORE

(For the Advertiser)
I have a cat within my house,
His color's buff and white,
He's neither large nor yet too small,
I think he is 'bout right.
For things concerning government
He's ever quite alert,
And for solving knotty problems
He is an apt expert.
He believes in woman's suffrage,
Says their cause to him appeals
As long as they don't suffer him
To go without his meals.
And that 'tis with men the same as cats,
When they wrangle an' dispute,
The ones that's best prepared to fight
Are always first to shoot.
And that if men would mind their biz
An' always do just right,
They'd have no cause for armament
And no excuse to fight.
He thinks there's many funny things
In this great world of ours,
So many different kinds of birds
An' different kinds of flowers;
An' when he looks out o'er the fields
An' thinks on this an' that,
Why people say the world is round
When it appears so flat.
Why he can see the stars so well
When it is dark at night,
And he can see them not a bit
When it is broad daylight.
But then, at questions such as these,
He gives a knowing wink,
And says, that he will solve them all
When he has time to think.
He hasn't got a bit of tail,
But I like him all the more,
For it doesn't take me near as long
To let him through the door.
And so it gives me much more time
In other things to mix,
To read the Advertiser
And study politics.
All about the high cost living,
And what makes the prices soar,
And where to blame for the cursed war,
And when it will be o'er;
How Roosevelt an' Hughes berate
An' say the President is slow;
How he ought to wallop Germany,
An' clean up Mexico.
But this is not my present theme—
A political contest,
I simply took my pen in hand
To eulogize my cat.
And so like Mother Mary,
When her story was begun,
I'll write another verse or so,
And then like I'm a poet,
He doesn't roam like other cats
To places of ill fame,
His morals are above reproach,
He bears an honored name.
An' when the neighbors' cats come 'round,
Making hideous the night,
He doesn't mingle in the fray,
He is too proud to fight;
Maintains a strict neutrality,
And like Wilson, thinks his best
To send to the belligerents
A well worded protest.
An' say to those tectonic powers
A howling on the fence,
"If you repeat your raids 'twill be
A very grave offence."
And now, to all cat fanciers
Allow me this to say:
If on business or on pleasure bent,
You chance to pass this way,
'Tis on a quiet little flat
At Lovell number four,
With a pair of branching elk horns
And sunshine 'bove the door;
There ever free from war's alarms
You'll find the peer of cats,
A rounding out his busy life
A catching mice and rats.
P. B. Henley.

Water for Cows

All animals require plenty of good, pure water. This is especially true of the milking cow, as water constitutes more than three-fourths of the volume of milk. The water supply, therefore, demands the dairyman's most careful attention. Stale or impure water is distasteful to the cow and she will not drink enough for maximum milk production. Such water may also carry disease germs which might make the milk unsafe for human consumption or be dangerous to the cow herself.
During the winter, when cows are stalled the greater part of the time, and unless arrangements have been made to keep water before them all the time, they should be watered two or three times a day. If possible, the water should be 15 or 20 degrees above the freezing point and should be supplied at practically the same temperature every day. When water well above freezing temperature is stored in tanks and piped directly to the cow, there is probably little occasion for facilities to warm it; but when it stands in a tank on which ice often forms, it usually pays well to warm it slightly. This can be done by a tank heater, by live steam, or by hot water from a boiler. If a boiler is used for running a separator or for heating water to wash and sterilize utensils, steam from it can readily and cheaply be used to warm the water.

Mixed Marriage.

The types will often play pranks with what a reporter tries to say—as for example in this extract from an English newspaper: "The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of pale bridegroom. She was attended by a hat, and carried a bouquet, the gift of the pink taffeta silk and a large dark-blue wonder the bridegroom turned pale."

Mark Down Sale of Suits and Overcoats

We have taken all odd suits and overcoats and marked them at lower prices to clean up stock. Not a garment in the lot but what is easily worth several dollars more than our former price, but as it is our custom to clean up our stock each season, we have marked them down. You'd better come at once as the number is limited. Nearly all sizes are here at present at prices which spell true economy. All are good wearing garments and correct in style.

On each garment at the new prices,

Ladies' Boots for $3.00

We have a large lot of Ladies' Button Boots, Gun Metal and Patent Kid, both high and low heels, all sizes from 1 to 8, D and E width, which we are selling for $3.00 per pair. These boots were bought on a low market and for that reason we are able to sell them for this price. These same boots on today's market would cost $4.00 or $4.50 and when these are sold we will have to get that price for the same quality, and manufacturers tell us that prices are going still higher. We have about 500 pairs of these boots, but they are selling rapidly. It is a good time to buy them now.

Other good ones, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50. Better have one in the house. You may need it any time.
